“Preparedness” phase

The role of primary care in the pandemic: the essential workers of medicine

- Managing acute COVID-19 patients at home, pre-hospital and post-hospital
 - New disease and higher level of acuity than typically managed remotely
- Screening for COVID-19
- Acute non-COVID medical issues
- Chronic disease management
- Preventive health

Opportunities

- ✓ Telemedicine expansion
- ✓ Remote monitoring of homebound patients
- ✓ Advance care planning

Concerns

- ✗ Resource allocation to preparedness
- ✗ Impending wave of delayed care
- ✗ Risk of provider burnout
