

SPEAKER BIOGRAPHIES

Network Adequacy: Balancing Cost, Access and Quality

July 21, 2014

KATHERINE ARBUCKLE is senior vice president and chief financial officer for Ascension Health. In her role, she provides strategic and operational financial leadership to the CEO and management team of the health system. Ms. Arbutckle was the executive vice president/chief financial officer for BonSecours Health System from December 2006 to April 2012. Ms. Arbutckle functioned as a strategic partner to the CEO, managing the financial operations and leading managed care operations and the supply chain. She was also responsible for senior services. Ms. Arbutckle has more than 30 years of experience in health care financial management. She served as vice president, finance, at Ascension Health from 2002 to 2006. Prior to her system position with Ascension, Ms. Arbutckle served at St. Vincent Hospital and Health Care Center in Indianapolis where she was assistant vice president, finance/assistant chief financial officer and with IU Health (formerly Clarian Health Partners, Inc.), Indianapolis, Indiana, as vice president, finance. Ms. Arbutckle graduated cum laude with a bachelor of science in accounting from Ball State University in Muncie, Indiana. She received her certified public accountant certification in 1983.

DANIEL DURHAM is executive vice president for policy and regulatory affairs at America's Health Insurance Plans, where he leads health care reform implementation efforts and policy activities. He has over 25 years of leadership experience with major policy and regulatory issues, primarily in the health care field. Previously, Mr. Durham served as a vice president for policy at the Pharmaceutical Research and Manufacturers of America, where he played a leadership role during health care reform and implementation of the Medicare prescription drug program. He also served in high-level policy positions in the federal government at the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, the Social Security Administration, and the Office of Management and Budget. He also held key policy positions at AARP and the California Legislative Analyst's Office. He received his undergraduate degree in government and philosophy from the University of Notre Dame and a master's degree in public policy from Duke University.

PAUL GINSBURG, PHD, is Norman Topping Chair in Medicine and Public Policy at the University of Southern California. Based in the Washington, DC area, he teaches graduate health administration courses and conducts health policy research through the Schaeffer Center for Health Policy and Economics at USC. From 1995 through the end of 2013, he was president of the Center for Studying Health System Change (HSC), which conducted research to inform policy makers and other audiences about changes in organization, financing and delivery of care and their effects on people. Prior to his founding HSC, Dr. Ginsburg served as the founding executive director of the Physician Payment Review Commission (now the Medicare Payment Advisory Commission). He was a senior economist at RAND, and served as deputy assistant director at the Congressional Budget Office (CBO). Before that, he was on the faculties of Duke and Michigan State Universities. He earned his doctorate in economics from Harvard University. He has been named to Modern Healthcare's "100 Most Influential Persons in Health Care" eight times. He received the first annual HSR Impact Award from AcademyHealth. He is a founding member of the National Academy of Social Insurance, a Public Trustee of the American Academy of Ophthalmology, served two elected terms on the Board of AcademyHealth, served on CBO's Panel of Health Advisors and serves on Health Affairs' editorial board.

BRIAN WEBB is the manager of health policy and legislation for the National Association Insurance Commissioners (NAIC). The NAIC represents the insurance regulators in all 50 states, the District of Columbia, and 5 U.S. territories. Before joining the NAIC, Mr. Webb worked on Medicare and Medicaid policy for the BlueCross BlueShield Association and, prior to that, was the assistant vice president for legislation for the then-Federation of American Health Systems (FAHS). He began working in Washington, D.C. on health care policy in 1988 as a legislative aide for Congressman Bill Thomas. After six years with Congressman Thomas, he worked five years in California Governor Pete Wilson's Washington, D.C., office as health and welfare aide and deputy director. Mr. Webb has a master's degree in public administration from the George Washington University and a bachelor's degree from BIOLA University in California.